 This 18-hole championship course is situated in rolling terrain at the edges of the Bohemian Karst, at some 420 metres above sea level, near the village of Karlštejn. The grounds offer golfers a generous practice range.

 The restaurant, under the Kogo brand, features elegant stylish rooms, a spacious terrace and a bar. It offers Italian cuisine typical of Tuscany, Umbria and Abruzzo. The wine list is extensive, with sparkling wines, champagne and cocktails.

BEROUN GOLF CLUB

 A course set in a beautiful undulating landscape with breath-taking views, while demanding enough for competitive golfers, enjoyable for beginners and recreational players. The Ladies' tees get you straight onto the fairway even at the most challenging holes. The real challenge at this course is the short game, and playing the greens. The holes are laid out to allow for different strategies; you can play conservatively, or choose a more aggressive approach. Each hole gives you several options and will not, say, force you to play over a water hazard, if you are not comfortable with that.

 The restaurant focuses on high-quality Czech and European cuisine, with touches of Asian cuisine. There is a lunchtime special menu du jour.

 The hotel, right in the clubhouse building, offers 7 double rooms and 2 suites complete with jacuzzi. The rooms overlook the golf course, the Royal town of Beroun and the surrounding woodland.

Of interest

In Beroun, just as in Karlštejn, you will find the classic signature mark of the Canadian architect Les Furber, a double green, at holes #7 and #10.

GOLF CLUB MSTĚTICE

 The 18-hole course in Mstětice is inspired by classic Scottish links. The course is situated in gently undulating terrain, the fairways' rough verges are of medium-high grass and the modelled putting greens are largely surrounded by well-placed bunkers and water hazards. A gentle breeze often joins in at Mstětice, to add to the ambience. The course is generally kind to mid- and lower proficiency golfers, not robbing them of their stock of golf balls, except by way of the water hazards. At the same time, golfers with low handicaps can enjoy the challenge of marking their score card.

 A Club restaurant with an extensive choice of ready meals and à la carte dishes. There is a lunch menu du jour. In summer you can sit on the terrace overlooking the golf course.

  Accommodation is available at partner establishments nearby: Pension Lony Kozovazy, Absolutum Boutique Hotel, Pension Na Americie in Nové Jirny and Hotel Toscca in Čelákovice.

Of interest

LORETA GOLF CLUB PYŠELY

 The Loreta Golf Club Pyšely is sensitively set in the lovely environs of the Sázava river. Its architect, Keith Preston, has managed to take advantage of the local rugged terrain, retaining numerous hedgerows, woodland nooks and mature trees. The course as a whole does not seem at all raw or recent. It is demanding in sporting terms, with its championship tees, whilst also reasonable and playable for intermediate golfers, from the yellow and red tees.

 A pleasant restaurant with a quiet, homely atmosphere. At the Loreta, Czech culinary tradition blends with modern international cuisine as well as the popular 'slow food' culinary principles. It puts the emphasis on locally sourced, domestic crops and produce varieties, and reviving long-lost recipes. The restaurant has no permanent menu, and in the interests of freshness it is even revised during the day. As for the drinks menu, along with the high-quality draft beer there's a choice of home-made lemonades.

 Loreta Hotel is located directly in the clubhouse loft space, providing beautiful views of the golf course and the Sázava catchment landscape. The hotel offers 24 beds in eight double rooms and two suites.

 One of the biggest Czech golf resorts, offering two 18-hole courses, the Radecký and the d'Este, as well as a public-access 9-hole course. The speciality is the water hazard hole #6. The second 18-hole course, the d'Este, is a little shorter and characterized by broad and well-arranged fairways, with expansive and sculptured greens. The d'Este course special feature is the island green hole #9.

 There are two restaurants at the resort. In the central building of the Grange is the "Tee No. 19" restaurant, and near the main car park, the Steak House St. Florian. GOLF RESORT KARLŠTEJN

 This mostly pastureland, undulating course dating from 1993 is situated in Czech Karst heritage landscape zone. Vistas of the Royal Castle of Karlštejn make a romantic backdrop. The varied terrain, a natural ravine, two water features, and a series of bunkers create a very attractive setting to excite even the most demanding golfer. The architects, Les Furber and Jim Eremek, took as their motto “an easy bogey, but a tricky birdie.” The 18-hole course is complemented by the 9-hole South Course on the southern slopes of Voškov hill, making use of natural, established greenery. The fairways are situated largely along the contour lines, the only exception being hole #2. Unlike the first two nines, the third nine is technically more challenging and a ‘tough nut to crack’ for many a golfer.

 Golf Restaurant Karlštejn offers exceptional Czech and international cuisine, using fresh ingredients and seasonal produce from local suppliers. The restaurant has a charming view of the course and Karlštejn Castle.

 There is no accommodation at the course itself, but you can stay in the village of Karlštejn (Hotel Karlštejn, Penzion Karlštejn-Vinice or the Romantic hotel Mlýn Karlštejn) or in nearby Řevnice (Bed and Breakfast Kytička).

Of interest

The Karlštejn course record was set on 8 August 1997 in the second round of the Chemapol Trophy tournament by the Swede Patrik Sjöland, with 61 shots.

RINGHOFFER GOLF CLUB

 The fairways of the 9-hole course nestle sensitively among the vistas of the English-styled Štiřín chateau park. Golfers here can enjoy the varied scenery; stands of rare trees, woodland-lined meadows and a lake with a romantic gazebo. The grounds make for a distinctly cosy ambience, where one feels at peace, far from the madding strife of the rat race. Don't be fooled by the relatively short holes – they are deceptively tricky. The fairways are narrow and a firmly guided iron is just the thing.

 The culinary treats at Štiřín are provided by the old castle restaurant in the Atis house, built in an 'organic' style reminiscent of Gaudí. The restaurant serves largely contemporary Czech cuisine. In summer you will appreciate the outdoor seating area with its breath-taking view, and in the winter, the golf-club hearth.

  The four-star Hotel Zámek Štiřín offers a stay in a Baroque chateau, set in a lovely English landscaped park in lake-spangled countryside. In addition to the 26 rooms and suites in the chateau, the hotel provides accommodation in the adjoining Salm house, in folk-Baroque style, or in modern luxury rooms in converted outbuildings.

Of interest

Baron František Ringhoffer was an enthusiastic golfer, who even sent his own coachman, Doležal, to learn the game in the cradle of golf – Britain. In 1931, Baron Ringhoffer was elected President of the Czech National Golf Association.
